About the Indonesian AID Scholarship (TIAS)

The Indonesian AID Scholarship Program, hereinafter referred to as the TIAS Program, is part of the Grant Provision Program aimed at supporting the achievement of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), particularly in the field of education, and as a continuation of the spirit of the Asia-Africa Conference and South-South Cooperation. The provision of Indonesian Government grants, as regulated by applicable laws, serves as a form of soft diplomacy to strengthen cooperation and friendship among partner countries.

The TIAS Program can also be utilized as a tool to enhance people-to-people contact, facilitate knowledge and cultural exchange, and is expected to strengthen Indonesia's position in international forums. The TIAS Program is a scholarship program aimed at human resource development in partner countries, specifically intended for government officials (non-active military personnel) and/or individuals recommended by their governments. Recipients of the TIAS Program will pursue education at higher education institutions in Indonesia.

TIAS offers diploma, bachelor and master's degree programs for Civil Servants, government officers, and persons officially nominated by the targeted government. This scholarship offers an unforgettable educational experience in Indonesia through studying at a well-known university and polytechnic, as well as a living experience in a multicultural and multilingual country. Through TIAS, students will enhance their intellectual standing, develop their competencies, and open wider professional opportunities, a foundation for post-college success, especially for those who will contribute to public sector work upon returning to their home country.

About Universitas Padjadjaran

Universitas Padjadjaran (UNPAD), was founded on September 11, 1957, in response to the growing demand for accessible, high-quality higher education in West Java. What began as a regional initiative has evolved into one of Indonesia's most prominent public universities—known for academic rigor, cultural depth, and social relevance. The name “Padjadjaran” originates from the historical Sunda Kingdom, ruled by Prabu Siliwangi (Prabu Dewantaprana Sri Baduga Maharaja) in Pakuan Padjadjaran (1473–1513 AD), a figure remembered for his wisdom and leadership in Sundanese history. The name reflects Universitas Padjadjaran's enduring commitment to excellence, integrity, and service to society. Guided by its core values—Excellent, Inclusive, and Impactful—the university strives to advance education and research that contribute meaningfully to national and global development.

Initially headquartered in the city of Bandung, Unpad established its main campus in Jatinangor in 1983. Based on the West Java Governor Decree No. 593/3590/1987, the campus area covers 3,285.5 hectares, with 175 hectares dedicated to university development. The relocation of faculties began in 1983, starting with the Faculty of Agriculture, and culminated in the official move of the Rectorate building to Jatinangor on January 5, 2012.

Unpad's institutional autonomy was elevated in 2014 when it was designated a Legal Entity State University (PTNBH) by presidential regulation. This milestone marked a transition in how the university governs itself—enabling greater flexibility, independence, and global competitiveness across academic, financial, and operational domains. Since then, Unpad has steadily advanced its mission through research-driven innovation, inclusive education, and strategic partnerships that transcend borders.

Over the past decade, the university has undergone a profound transformation. It expanded its digital infrastructure to support hybrid and online learning, deepened its commitment to inclusive access—particularly for students from underserved backgrounds—and elevated its research agenda through interdisciplinary centers of excellence. The university has also launched a bold sustainability vision through its Smart and Green Campus initiative, embedding environmental responsibility into all facets of university life.

Unpad's global engagement has grown in both depth and breadth. The university has forged international academic alliances across Asia, Australia, Europe, and North America, developing joint degree programs, collaborative research, and student mobility schemes. As a result, it is increasingly recognized as one of Indonesia's globally connected universities while remaining grounded in the cultural richness of West Java.

In 2024, Unpad designed its Strategic Plan for 2025–2029, reaffirming its commitment to shaping future global leaders, strengthening social and international impact, and expanding its role as a knowledge epicenter in the fields of health, economy, energy, socio-culture, and agrotechnology. The university's long-term vision toward 2045 aspires to position Unpad not just as a center of learning but as a transformative institution that empowers people, communities, and systems.

Unpad Campuses

Currently, Unpad has several campuses or sites in the West Java area, and one campus in Jakarta. The Bandung Campus, strategically located in the heart of Bandung, functions as Unpad's urban anchor—hosting graduate-level programs, leadership events, and the university's executive and administrative core. Bandung campus also supports academic symposia, national collaborations, and university ceremonial events, making it central to Unpad's academic diplomacy. The Jatinangor Campus, our largest and most comprehensive campus, is located at the foot of Mount Manglayang, Jatinangor is home to 16 faculties and 2 schools. Spread across 1.78 million square meters, this green, self-contained academic city supports the full student experience—from classroom to community engagement. As the university's innovation and research hub, Jatinangor integrates world-class learning with public service, cultural exploration, and student-driven initiatives.

Unpad Tugu Makalangan, Jatinangor, 2025

The “Makalangan Monument” of Unpad, located in the main gate of Unpad Jatiningor Campus, symbolizes the spirit of struggle and readiness to compete. The word “Makalangan” itself comes from the Sundanese language, meaning “to gather and prepare for an open contest.” The monument, inaugurated on October 4, 2024, represents the determination of Unpad’s academic community to pursue a bright future that brings benefits to society.

Why Study in Universitas Padjadjaran?

In the heart of West Java, Universitas Padjadjaran (Unpad) stands as a place where knowledge, culture, and community come together. We offer diverse programs designed to inspire academic achievement, meaningful cultural exchange, and international collaboration.

Make Unpad your choice and achieve a bright future!

With an outstanding reputation, a high-quality academic environment, comprehensive facilities, inclusivity, expert educators, and opportunities for industry collaboration, Unpad is ready to provide the best learning experience. We support your potential to grow into real achievements, backed by a vast career network.

As one of Indonesia’s largest and most respected universities, Unpad is committed to advancing diverse fields of study, including science, technology, health, economics, law, culture, the arts, and social welfare. Our dedicated faculties continuously work to strengthen their expertise and contribute to the development across the nation.

“Diversity and Inclusivity”

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to the whole UNPAD fraternity, especially the FISIP and the international office, for your unwavering support. The administration and the Indonesian Aid Scholarship program coordinators in campus have been instrumental in ensuring a smooth academic journey. The lecturers have also been exceptionally dedicated to offering guidance, encouragement, and expertise that has been invaluable to my academic and personal growth. Thank you so much, UNPAD.

For the 2025/2026 academic year, Universitas Padjadjaran welcomed 11,375 new students, with an increasing number of international students joining its academic community each year. In 2025, Universitas Padjadjaran proudly hosts more than 900 international students, with around 112 students newly accepted in August 2025, representing 27 countries across Asia, Africa, Europe, and beyond. Among them are students from China, Japan, Malaysia, Pakistan, Tanzania, Nigeria, Kenya, Germany, the Netherlands, Timor Leste, Norway, Zimbabwe, Suriname, Palestine, Afghanistan, Botswana, Malawi, Gambia, Papua New Guinea, Cameroon, and Bangladesh.

Unpad International Student Orientation 2025, Jatinangor

Inbound international students at Universitas Padjadjaran participate in a wide range of academic and cultural programs, including student exchange, internships, research attachments, short courses, study visits, and service-learning activities. These programs are offered both as full-time engagements (lasting more than three months) and part-time engagements (lasting less than three months), reflecting the university's commitment to providing diverse international learning experiences. Through these programs, Universitas Padjadjaran continues to strengthen its vision of being an excellent, inclusive, and impactful university, nurturing a vibrant international community and fostering global collaboration in education and research.

At Unpad, international students are welcomed into the variety of undergraduate and graduate programs designed to provide a globally relevant education while immersing students in Indonesia's rich cultural environment. Programs are offered in two main formats: regular programs conducted in Bahasa Indonesia and international programs, which are delivered primarily in English. For students enrolled in regular programs, Unpad supports their academic journey through the Bahasa Indonesia for Foreign Speakers (BIPA) program, helping them build the language proficiency and cultural understanding needed for success. Meanwhile, the international program offers an English-taught curriculum designed according to international standards, ensuring valuable academic experience for students aspiring to achieve globally recognized qualifications.

TIAS Programs Structure and Curriculum

At Universitas Padjadjaran, the Indonesian Scholarship is implemented through a structured academic and non-academic framework designed to support students' academic success and cross-cultural adaptation.

The program generally consists of:

1. Indonesian Language and Matriculation

New TIAS awardees undertake an Indonesian language and matriculation program to support academic readiness and daily communication.

2. Academic Study Program

Students enroll in their selected degree programs and follow the standard academic regulations of Universitas Padjadjaran, including coursework, research activities, examinations, and thesis or dissertation completion.

3. Academic Supervision and Student Support

TIAS students receive academic supervision from assigned faculty members, as well as administrative and welfare support coordinated through the university's international office and relevant faculties.

4. Cultural and Community Engagement

Students are encouraged to participate in cultural activities, community service, and campus life, enriching their educational experience and fostering intercultural exchange.

For the total nine study programs offered in Unpad, below are the detail curriculums and program structure at each study programs:

1. International Undergraduate Program in International Relations

Considering the early development stage of the program, we propose a program structure of a Single Degree Program with the degree granted from Universitas Padjadjaran. The program is designed as follows:

- The Single Degree Program is designed for a study period of 4 years (8 semesters) within Unpad.
- The maximum duration of the study period is 14 semesters (7 years).
- Graduates of this program will receive Sarjana Hubungan Internasional (S.H.Int.) or Bachelor of International Relations from Universitas Padjadjaran.
- For study completion/ graduation requirements, students should fulfill the minimum English proficiency as follows: achieve a minimum IELTS score of 6.5 (no bands lower than 6) or other internationally recognized standardized tests with comparable results.

The curriculum for eight (8) semesters of the program is designed according to the curriculum for the regular undergraduate program of International Relations in the Faculty of Social and Political Sciences. The students must fulfill 144 credits to graduate, and the courses are composed of both mandatory courses and elective courses. Following the courses and curriculum at the partner institutions, the credits acknowledgment will be transferred and converted accordingly.

3. International Undergraduate Program in Accounting

Accounting is the process of recording, classifying, and summarizing financial information related to all transactions and events in the company and presenting it to be understood by users, both internal parties (managers) and external parties (shareholders, potential investors, etc.). When viewed from this understanding, accounting practitioners are the people who know best about the company's internal aspects and can even predict company performance based on this information. Therefore, the accounting profession is one of the most highly paid professions and is highly sought after by companies. In accounting, there are several sub-fields such as Financial Accounting, Management Accounting, Accounting Information Systems, Auditing, Public Sector Accounting, Sharia Accounting, and Taxation.

The Bachelor of Accounting study program at the Faculty of Economics and Business (FEB) Unpad aims to produce graduates who have the knowledge, skills, and attitudes as professionals in the accounting field. Required knowledge is accounting, finance, and other related knowledge, knowledge of business activities and organization, as well as knowledge and competence in the field of information technology.

The skills that must be possessed are Intellectual skills, Technical and functional skills, Personal skills, Interpersonal and communication skills, and Organizational and business management skills. Attitudes that must be possessed are values and behaviors that lead to a commitment to the public interest and sensitivity to social responsibility; self-development and continuous learning; reliable, responsible, punctual, and respectful; applicable laws and regulations.

The competencies required of a professional accounting graduate refer to the international standards of accounting education (International Education Standards/IES) that have been set by the International Federation of Accountants (IFAC) and have been effective since 2005. IES-based competency standards include the dimensions of Knowledge (knowledge), Skills, and Professional Attitudes and Ethics. The degree obtained for graduates is Bachelor of Economics (SE.).

4. International Undergraduate Program in Management

Management is a process to achieve goals, which includes planning, organizing, directing, and controlling. Therefore, management is used in all organizations to achieve their goals, both profit organizations (companies/business organizations) and non-profit organizations (government, social institutions, community organizations); in all sectors: banking, manufacturing, mining, trade, health, tourism, etc., which are small, medium, or large. Because it is very universal, many people feel the need to study management

In the Management study program, Faculty of Economics and Business (FEB) Unpad, various courses will be studied that will develop students to:

1. Able to plan, organize, arrange staff, lead and direct others, and exercise control in managing a business and non-business organization.
2. Able to carry out the tasks of functional managers (Marketing, Operations, HR, Finance) and entrepreneurship in a business and non-business organization.
3. Able to solve operational and managerial problems, choose the best solution, develop decision recommendations, and action plans by utilizing information and communication technology.
4. Able to compile a business plan (business plan).
5. Able to collect and process data and analyze relevant information in the research process.
6. Able to understand theories, concepts, methods, and analytical tools related to managerial skills in the fields of Marketing, HR, Operations, and Finance.

In addition to academic development through lectures, FEB Unpad also seeks to develop the soft skills of students by developing the Champion Program to educate and develop students' thinking skills so that they can compete in various competitions, both at national and international levels. Another thing that the Unpad FEB Management study program does in order to improve graduate achievement is to include Achievement and Internship courses as one of the mandatory courses for new students. After graduating from the Management study program FEB Unpad, the degree that will be obtained for graduates is a Bachelor of Economics (SE.).

The Communication Science Undergraduate Program wants to make sure that all of IUP graduates are aligned with media, communication, and digital industries, and further meet with the international standard. There are 3 main professions and/or scopes of careers we thrive to achieve:

- Scientific Communication Professional
Graduates possess strong competencies in research methodology, analysis, and the preparation of comprehensive reports and recommendations. They are highly skilled in communicating research findings effectively. Our graduates are prepared for careers as junior researchers, political communication analysts, health communication analysts, and media monitoring analysts.
- Digital Communication Planner
Graduates are equipped with the ability to analyze media data, develop strategic social media content plans, and conduct audits and evaluations of digital communication campaigns. Our graduates are prepared to pursue professional careers as Social Media and Digital Media Analyst, Social Media and Digital Media Planner Planners, and Digital Communication Specialists in various institutions.
- Professional in Communication for Development

Graduates possess the ability to identify challenges in the design, implementation, and evaluation of communication programs for community-based development. They are prepared for professional roles as Communication Entrepreneurs and Community Development Officers across a wide range of institutions.

7. International Master Program in Political Science (Concentration in International Relations)

The Master of Political Science program, concentration: International Relations at the Faculty of Social and Political Sciences, Padjadjaran University, is designed to produce graduates with diplomatic, research, analytical, and empowerment skills in the study of International Relations, specifically the sub-concentrations in Security Studies and Global Studies.

This program offers two sub-concentration options for students: 1). The Security Studies sub-concentration addresses not only traditional security issues such as war and conflict between states, cross-border conflicts, defense strategy and diplomacy, arms races and military power, the use of drones, and cybersecurity, but also non-traditional security issues, including human security, economic security, food security, and energy security. 2). The Global Studies sub-concentration emphasizes discussions on a wide range of issues, including international cooperation, global trade, international migration, international human rights, environmental issues and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), and global gender issues.

Through learning methods, especially problem-based, case-based research, students are able to build critical research and analysis skills on international relations issues and develop diplomatic and empowerment skills in achieving their professional careers at the national, regional and global levels.

8. International Master Program in Public Administration

The Master of Public Administration (MPA) program is designed in accordance with the Indonesian Qualification Framework (IQF) and the National Higher Education Standards (NHES), ensuring that graduates meet nationally and internationally recognized competencies. The curriculum responds to global and disruptive challenges by equipping students with advanced literacy, analytical, and professional skills needed in contemporary public sector governance. As a master's program, the MPA aligns with Level 8 of the IQF, which is comparable to Level 7 of the European Qualification Framework (EQF), emphasizing highly specialized knowledge, problem-solving abilities, and strategic decision-making capacities.

The curriculum is developed using an Outcome-Based Education (OBE) approach and is periodically reviewed every 4–5 years with input from key stakeholders, including alumni, students, academic staff, and professional users. It is grounded not only in national and international qualification frameworks, but also in philosophical, social, psychological, historical, and legal foundations. The program aims to develop graduates capable of advancing public administration knowledge, conducting research, and managing complex governance challenges at local, national, and global levels.

The program is structured over four semesters. The first and second semesters focus on strengthening students' theoretical foundations, analytical skills, and applied knowledge in public administration and governance, complemented by elective courses that allow academic and professional specialization. The third semester is dedicated to the development and refinement of the research proposal, while the fourth semester culminates in the completion and defense of the master's thesis. Student workload and study duration follow national regulations, with a maximum study period of four academic years. Academic and research outputs are formally recognized as part of the learning process, ensuring academic rigor and international exposure.
